Flowers from Holland

The latest HI! by Henry Holland collection at Debenhams is packed with summery floral and fruit prints, polka-dots and pop colour. His edgy London style has been a winner since he launched his first collection for the store last year.

Edgy yet chic accessories capture his pop culture signature style and stonewash denim cropped jackets and ripped shorts toughen up the look. This floral tunic dress is £30 and the bobble cardigan, £35.

Join team polo

Whether you're horse-mad, dog-mad or just need a quality casual top for the summer, Musto's Team Polo is a stylish addition to your wardrobe. From the Signature range, it features Zara Philips embroidery details along with that of her main sponsor Land Rover. In three colours, the polos are £42 from www.musto.com or there is an outlet shop at Gloucester Quays

Roaring success

Nailsworth company My Tiger Bag has brought out its metallic shopping bag in two new colours – bronze and petrol blue.

The bag, already available in gold and pink, is made partly from recycled plastic bottles, with 50p from each bag sold going to the WWF Save the Tiger Campaign. The bags cost £7.50 from www.mytigerbag.com

Royal date

With all eyes on the royals it's worth checking out fashion label Save the Queen... even though it's an Italian brand. Not one for shrinking violets, it's usually full of multi colours, like vibrant works of art. This flattering maxi, however, is for more muted souls and a hard-worker for summer occasions... It's £225, from Feva in Regent Street, Cheltenham.
